Does it hurt the Clothes?

We hear that some woman said of Pearline—"It's the greatest thing I ever saw for easy washing and cleaning, in fact it does so much I'm afraid of it." She recalled the old saying, "too good to be true."

How absurd to suppose that the universal popularity of Pearline is due to anything But wonderful merit.

How absurd to suppose that millions of women would use PEARLINE year after year if it hurt the hands or clothing.

How absurd to suppose that any sane man would risk a fortune in advertising an article which would, not stand the most severe (and women are critical) tests.

That's just what PEARLINE will stand—test it for easy work—quality of work—for saving time and labor—wear and tear—economy—test it any way you will—but test it. You'll find PEARLINE irresistible.

Beware "Peddlers and some unscrupulous grocers are offering imitations which they claim to be Pearline, or "the same as Pearline." IT'S FALSE—they are not, and besides are dangerous. Manufactured only by JAMES PYLE, New York.

GURNEY HOT WATER HEATER

"NOTHING CAN SURPASS IT."

The Gurney Heater, placed in my house two years ago, is a pronounced success. For its ability to maintain a comfortable temperature in moderate cold weather nothing can equal it, and for keeping the house warm in extremely cold weather NOTHING CAN SURPASS IT.

It is one which, which is, manager is a surprise to us, and is a great economy in coal. Yours truly,

BOLD BREAK BY BURGLARS.

A Danbury, Conn., Jewelry Store Entered and Robbed.

Hundreds of People Join in the Search for the Burglars.

DANBURY, Conn., July 10. Last night the jewelry store of H. M. Lacy, on Main street, was burglarized and goods $15,000 worth of jewelry stolen. About six o'clock two men entered the store, overpowered and bound the clerk and took all the watches, chains, rings, etc., and wrapped them up in shawls, and then, with the aid of a chisel, forced the steel box in the safe, which contained $940 in money. They then departed.

The police were notified and got on the track of the thieves. During the through the fields one of the men dropped a package which was found to contain $2,000 worth of jewelry. The thieves escaped in the darkness. All night, parties searched the mountains, but unsuccessfully. This morning the country for fifteen miles west of here was up in arms and hundreds of people had joined the officers in scouring for the two men. At noon to-day the burglars had not been caught, but it was decided in a way a matter of time when they would be, as they are surrounded in the mountains. There is great excitement in this city over the bold act.

SUFFERING FROM DROUGHT.

Cattle Dying on the Ranches for Want of Grass and Water.

TOPEKA, Kansas, July 10. All through New Mexico, Arizona, some parts of Colorado and also in Old Mexico, no rain has fallen for months and thousands upon thousands of range cattle are lying dead in the parched valleys and thousands more are dying for want of grass and water. The extreme drought has dried up the grass and what little water there is is so remote from the grazing districts that the cattle cannot get to it. Cattle are being shipped to Kansas ranches, where there is plenty of grass and water, as fast as cars to transport them can be obtained.

BREVIER LOCALS.

Rev. R. B. Merrill and family left yesterday for his summer vacation.

Mr. Robert Hoe, Jr., has returned from a short visit to his home in Rhode Island.

The work of blasting the ledge on Chapel hill for the street railway is finished and the rails can be laid very soon.

The schooner F. G. Pendleton is receiving a cargo of ice from F. W. Ayer & Co., at the Waterman & Magee ice house.

The Colin F. Hatched loading ice at the pulp mill from Webster, Stetson & Co., Wednesday, and yesterday the Hattie H. Barbour commenced to load at the same place.

The brig Emma was hauled out on the marine railway yesterday and the metal stripped from the bottom, that the damage done by lying aground in the stream may be determined and repaired.

Rev. C. M. Perry, of the South Brewer church, left yesterday for a visit of four weeks to places in Massachusetts and Rhode Island. The church will probably be closed during his absence.

The Emma F. Angell has finished loading ice for New York from E. & I. K. Stetson, having taken 1,000 tons, which were loaded in two days and six hours. The schooner Bertha Dean is now loading at that berth.

Some boys who went barrying out on Western Avenue Wednesday found in a field several shingles which from the color of the paint were recognized as part of the roof of F. W. Ayer & Co's. ice house. This is a long distance for the wind to carry things.

The pulp mill of the Eastern Manufacturing Company are very busy at present and are turning out double the amount of pulp which they were before they put in the additional gold plant. All of the pulp which is sold and the orders are ahead of their capacity for manufacturing.

City Marshal Lunt is strictly enforcing the law obliging every owner of a dog to procure a license and says that every dog in Brewer shall be licensed and a collar put on him this year. He has licensed nearly all the dogs now, which has brought into the city treasury $143 and still there are more to follow.

The Hecla will play a picked nine from Bangor again on Saturday and it is expected that Hamlin Brothers will be the battery for the visitors, who are also to have Foss in their team, which they intend to be as strong as they can raise. Mallig, the catcher for the Hecla, who hurt his foot a few days ago, says that he will be able to play on Saturday and if he does, an exciting game can be expected. The game will take place in Rollins Park.

FIRST WEDNESDAY EVENING. There were two fires Wednesday evening, both of them on Main street and neither of them causing any great amount of damage. A cask of lime over the furnace at the Dirigo mill got on fire but was promptly extinguished and the services of the firemen, who were all on hand in readiness to assist if need be, were not called for. The other fire was in the store of A. G. Carver & Son and was caused by one of the large brass lamps in the window getting on fire but there were, fortunately, a number of men near and after a good many pails of water had been used the blaze was extinguished. Had there been no one near when it happened, we should probably have a more serious fire to report. The loss was small.

The City of Waterville left yesterday afternoon for Rockland with a large party of the stockholders of the company on board. In the party were President L. H. Soper, Vice-President William T. Haines and Treasurer P. S. Hoe and son, John E. Webber, one of the directors, Warren C. Philbrook, Esq., and Messrs. George W. Reynolds, Fred J. Arnold, J. P. Hill, Moses Blodgett, E. C. Spaldo, G. H. Carpenter, William Lincoln, William Putnam, A. P. Drinkwood, Frank Plummer, Dana Foster, Dr. J. F. Hill, of Waterville, Mr. John H. Woodman, of Skinp, and Messrs. C. G. and Arthur H. Tozzer, W. C. Simpson, Gene Emery, W. S. Harvey, Amos Learned and Walter Toz er, of Fairfield. In addition to these were Capt. S. H. Barbour who is to pilot the boat to her destination, and who is the builder, Captain Erastus Wyman, who is to command the boat, E. H. Mitchell, clerk, and C. O. Butterfield, engineer. The boat will stop over night at Rockland and in the morning go up as far as Bath, and as this is the first trip which the boat has made for any distance, much interest is taken in it, not only by the Waterville people, but also by many in this city.

Hampden Locker.

[Regular Correspondence Weig and Courier.]

A fine entertainment was given at the Town Hall, Hampden, July 4, under the auspices of Hampden Grange. The programme consisted of singing, and recitations by members of the Grange, assisted by Mrs. Carrie Emerson Dunigan, the well-known elocutionist, who delighted the audience with her selections, and very pleasing manner. [Also Miss Bertha Millett, whistling soloist, accompanied by Miss Gertrude Herbert. The entertainment was one of rare merit, and the attendance showed most conspicuously the increased appreciation our people have of the value of superior talent to aid them in their prized desire to obtain funds for the erection of a new hall in the near future.

STATE NEWS.

Androscoggin.

A down-town dry goods man who had on a linen duster and whose top-buggy was full of advertising material such as fans and dodgers, was kicking his heels up against the curbing in front of his store at eight o'clock Tuesday morning, says the Lewiston Journal. You have seen a man all ready to start somewhere and who it kept back by his wife's bonnet or his sister's gloves. Well, this man looked just as agitated as he. "What's the trouble?" was asked. "I'm waiting for the mailster. She hasn't come down. I want fifty or seventy-five cents to spend. I expect to step at Poland Spring to-night and I want a penny at least. I can't get two my own nails because I don't know the combination and that is a solemn fact. If I wanted two dollars to pay the ice-man when he was gone, I'd have to borrow or the ice-man would whistle for the money. It reminds me of the time Hiram Blaker, who owns a new safe for keeping his money in, got locked out. He had put in the combination and then couldn't get it out. He was in a terrible fix. He had to borrow money to get his dinner. He gave to me the apple and I did eat."

All our daughters cannot enter the professions, neither can our sons, nor would they desire to do so even if they had the ability. Both have special talent in which they excel, and by which they can, if they will, make a good living. It is, then, given these their business education which will make them self-reliant, self-supporting.

I was reading very recently this item (it goes to prove my theory), that they had elected a woman president of a railroad corporation, that the first in the history of American railroad building who ever held that office. I also see the smartest cement commentator was a woman.

We find women filling almost every place of trust in book-keepers in large wholesale establishments, stenographers, telegraph operators, and so on. What has brought this about simply this, that our daughters have received the same business education as their brothers.

I once heard a father say, I have spent a large amount of money educating my daughter; now she is about to marry it will amount to nothing to her. Surely, when we see an educated wife and mother, we have no cause to feel ashamed of her. Educate your daughter if for no other reason, that she may be enabled the better to educate and rear her own children; the development resulting from an education will be transmitted from mother to child. The change has done a grand good work in this direction as well as in many others, here we see the boy and girl enjoying the same privileges, we are all peers in the Grange hall. May our order live and prosper until all the farmers throughout our broad land come within our gates.

I do not propose to discuss the Ironclads question in connection with the education of our girls; it is a question by and of itself; but I will say this: Place the brothers in our position to-day, why, we should have another long and bloody eight years' war; they do not believe in taxation without representation; neither do I.

She is a tall brunette with charming manners, soft dark eyes, and a sweet and intelligent face. When only fifteen years old she exhibited at the Salon a portrait of her grandfather. It would have taken a prize had not if a jury thought that "the air and hue of this picture was too young."

The preparations for the wedding of Mr. Stanley and Miss Tennant in Westminster Abbey are complete. Miss Tennant has invited a number of "sweet girls," friends and residents of here, to be attending a suggested school in the gaberdoned, to be present at the ceremony, adding to it a picturesque feature, which she proposes to have Sir John Millais paint. The queen has sent with her an historic wish to felicitate in letter of congratulation to Miss Tennant. It is the general expectation that a title of nobility will be conferred upon Mr. Stanley on his wedding day, whether by the Queen of England or the King of the Belgians is not known.

Among the stories it is told of Bishop Gilman Marston, of New Hampshire, who died Thursday, are'th ese: He was badly wounded in the arm at Bull Run, but refused to have the member amputated, though the surgeons said his life depended upon that operation. He insisted upon having plenty of light, and while the surgeons through the dark room they chose consistently on their feet. Among the shots, some of the worst cases of fractured bones. The bishop, by reason of his strength of mind, literally "willed" himself to recovery, and when the surgeons came to examine the arm, they saw at once the wonderful power of mind over matter. He would not consent to chloroform, and when the surgeons had finished, he said, "Gentlemen, I thank you for your kindness, and in appreciation of your skill, I will bequeath my body to science." He was as good as his word.

Should Our Daughters Receive the Same Business Education as their Brothers?

This has been a problem which, in the past, has perplexed the minds of our fathers and mothers, and is it still perplexing us at the present time. All problems are incorrect unless they can be proved. How unless it can be proved to me that our daughters, from the time they enter the primary school, stand in line with their little brother, to the time we graduate from the grammar school, are not as capable of mastering all the different studies belonging to this course as their brothers, I will stand, corrected; otherwise I shall still remain a firm advocate of the same business education for the one as for the other.

Every day, perhaps a half-period of time, is used through it the daughters in a frisky colt; read and write it we call that was necessary—they had education enough to fill the position they should occupy. A delightful course for women was ushered in. If a woman could have been found, bold enough to have spoken in public, she would have been hooted in the lobby. Now, as I said, months, being only twelve days younger. They have lived together sixty-two years. Among the number who met with this aged couple were Mrs. Lorenzo Bowler, of Bangor, Mrs. Emilie Lund and daughter, of Somerville, Mass., and Miss Ida Bowler, of Charleston, Mass. An appropriate poem for the occasion was read by Mrs. Lo A. Bowler, of North Palermo.

B. Eugene, Esq., of Pembroke, met with a painful and serious accident while riding near Pembroke, recently. In attempting to turn his horse, he was thrown from the carriage, breaking his leg below the knee. It being quite late in the evening and some distance from any house, he remained there during the night. In the morning he was brought to his home where he is doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances. His faithful horse stood over him during the entire night, repeatedly rubbing the face of Mr. Eugene with his nose.

Gray, of Wesley, who was killed by being thrown from his carriage, was taken crazy on learning of his father's fatal injury, and as soon as you recovered his right mind. He is twenty-nine years of age. Mrs. Gray is prostrated by the sudden grief. Mr. Gray leaves a wife and five children.

B. Eugene, Esq., of Pembroke, met with a painful and serious accident while riding near Pembroke, recently. In attempting to turn his horse, he was thrown from the carriage, breaking his leg below the knee. It being quite late in the evening and some distance from any house, he remained there during the night. In the morning he was brought to his home where he is doing as well as could be expected under the circumstances. His faithful horse stood over him during the entire night, repeatedly rubbing the face of Mr. Eugene with his nose.

SCROFULA

Is that impurity of the blood which produces unsightly lumps or swellings in the neck; which causes running sores on the arms, legs, or face; which develops cancers in the eyes, ears, or nose, often ending in blindness or deafness; which is the origin of pimples, cancerous growths, or "chancres;" which, fastening upon the lungs, causes consumption and death. Has the most ancient of all diseases, and very few persons are entirely free from it.

How Can It Be Cured

By taking Hood's Sarsaparilla, which, by the remarkable cures it has accomplished, has proven itself to be a potent and peculiar medicine for this disease. If you suffer from scrofula, try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

"Every spring my wife and children have been troubled with scrofula, my little boy, three years old, being a terrible sufferer. Last spring he was one mass of sores from head to foot. Would take Hood's Sarsaparilla, and all have been cured of the scrofula. My little boy is entirely free from sores, and all four of my children look bright and healthy." W. B. ATKERSON, Passaic City, N. J.

Prohibition vs. Licenses.

The Lewiston Journal publishes an interview with Mr. Clark, the Third Party candidate for Governor, the result of which is to show that he is more interested in maintaining the political organization of his party than in repelling the attack upon prohibition. In other words politics and not temperance seems to be the principal consideration that governs his action. Mr. Clark freely admitted that he saw in the Democratic platform "a desperate move made to destroy prohibition in Maine," and yet he is willing to contribute indirectly to this very end because his withdrawal might demoralize the Third Party. Mr. Clark and every temperance man in Maine knows that every vote cast for his party will count just so much for license in the campaign this fall. The Democratic party contends and will attempt to demonstrate to this election that there is an increasing sentiment in Maine against the prohibitory law. Every vote cast against the Republican candidate will simply be a contribution towards establishing this claim. We have no fear of the result of a campaign conducted on this issue, but the verdict should be made as strong as not only this year, but for all time to come the fact that Maine does not want and will not have a license law. With this issue pending we cannot see how any sincere temperance man who believes in prohibition can fail to understand and obediently perform his duty. His vote must either count for or against prohibition. There is but one way that it can count for the law and that is by sustaining the Republican party on a prohibition platform, as against the Democratic party squarely committed to a policy which Mr. Clark concedes means the destruction of prohibition. Whether the members of the Third Party generally will coincide with Candidate Clark in the opinion that party organization is of more importance than the law itself is a question for the future. Shall the law stand with the aid of these professed temperance men, or in spite of them, is a subject for them to see early consider at this time.

The Senate and the Election Bill.

The despatches this morning announce that a Senatorial caucus will soon be held to determine what action the Republican Senators will take on the National Election bill recently passed by the House. It does not seem as though much time should be consumed in reaching a decision on that point. Every obstacle that is so carefully pointed out by those anxious to see the bill fail applied with much more force to the House with its larger membership, but the Republicans of that body went equal to the situation and passed the bill just as they were pledged so do in the National Convention of 1888. What then is to prevent the Senate from doing its duty? If the Democrats undertake to filibuster the remedy is in the hands of the majority, who, being responsible for the success or failure of legislation should control it. The intimation that the Democrats will kindly consent to the rapid transaction of all other business in order to secure an adjournment if this bill is allowed to slumber in committee, should not be considered for a moment. So long as the present condition of affairs is permitted to continue this fraudulent vote from the South is a constant menace to all legislation. When the bill is put, the most destructive and pernicious measure that has threatened the people for years, was forced through the House by a majority of thirteen votes, ten of the thirteen came from Georgia Congressmen returned by elected on a total vote of 27,000, or over 6,000 less than the vote in this district two years ago. This is true of every bill that comes before Congress. This rotten vote from the South is found solidly behind every measure that is disavowed to the best interests of the country and solidly against every measure that will promote the welfare of the people. The people are naturally tired of this condition of affairs and the demand for legislation that will end it is pouring in from all sides. All now depends upon the Senate and the Republicans of that body should see to it that the pledge to the country is redeemed.

The Party Boss.

When papers whose editors privately avow themselves in favor of honest and economic everything, without pandering to sinister and selfish ideas, party for party sake, condemn the gerrit which they concede in private to be right, they forget that in public confidence just as the Democratic party has been doing for years past.

As the above paragraph appears in an editorial in the Commercial commenting upon the quotation from the Machias Union-Gazette, and contemporary presumably includes that paper among those which have sacrificed "their duty to public confidence," just how the veteran Democrat who controls the Union will relish this stigma from one who but a few years ago enrolled himself in the ranks of the Democracy, remains to be seen. Hartley, on the Cobb Times' dashboard, pushed the convention the lesser wing of the Democracy evidently propose by fair and bullies the majority of the party into accepting the unquestioned leadership of the handful of men who overturned the action of the first convention, and in accordance with this programme are beginning to crack the whip vigorously. It is an interesting contest and the attempt of the colt to wag the dog is creating a lively disturbance among the mult and fin. The Democrat had voluntarily assumed the position of boss and shown warning that all those powers that decline to follow in order will be read out of the party.

The British complain that if the McKinley bill is passed 2,000 persons employed on American work in Sheffield alone will be rendered idle, while thousands of English workingmen in other places will be thrown out of employment. This is hard on our British friends; but why should Congress legislate for England? For every one of the thousands of Englishmen made idle by the McKinley bill an American will be given work. Why, then, should we keep our own people idle that Englishmen may continue to find employment?

There are the days when the Democratic politicians wish that the Israel at Austin were a pen of broken bricks and that he had had melted of the rabbit, says the Boston Journal. It is particularly embarrassing at a time when all the Democratic organs are vociferously arguing that the McKinley bill is a measure of retaliation, and that American consumers pay the duties, to have the more distant knock the water from Sheffield that the manufacturers of that city are up in arms against the bill and have called a public meeting to denounce it. The worthy Mayor of Sheffield could not be moved with greater indignation against the oppressive tariff if he were an American Democratic Congressman appealing to the ignorance and prejudice of his constituents. It is doubtful, however, if his promises of outspoken opposition with the Democracy to defeat the bill will be altogether appreciated by his American allies and sympathizers. They like English sentiments well enough, but they do not care to have the last proclaimed from every house top.

As to the protectionists, all this Sheffield indignation will be likely to elicit nothing from them save unfeeling laughter. The Republican Congress was not elected as legislators for England; it was elected as legislators for America, and the resentful looks of the English manufacturers is very satisfactory proof that it is succeeding. We wonder if it never occurs to Sheffield and Birmingham and Manchester that they are playing a rather important part in assuming to influence the legislation of an independent nation of sixty million people. If the case were reversed and the McKinley bill were an English measure, and American manufacturers should publicly protest against it, they would be roundly abused for their "Yankee impudence" by these very men in Sheffield and Birmingham and Manchester who now presume to dictate to the United States. But hen, consistency never was one of the strong points of John Bull in his dealings with Brother Jonathan.

The Democratic Candidate.

The best that can be said of the candidate for Governor in that he harmonizes well with the platform, and is a natural outgrowth of the elements composing the convention. While leading Democrats all over the State were declaring a possible nomination, the friends of candidate Thompson were running a blowing horses and spanning for delegates with a zeal that was really ludicrous. Of course he got the nomination, and now what is he going to do with it? Outside of a very limited area he is entirely unknown to the Democrats of Maine. It is not many years since he was training with the Republicans, but failing to transact with an office he took himself and his vote over to the Democracy to stay, where he has since consistently quaffed a share of the spoils that, like the dews, have come. The ability which won him the distinction at the bar of which his personal cronies make such boasts, by a dissolution of partnership, has been transferred to another law office, and instead of a fat reward for his campaign speeches, that wherever delivered increased the Republican vote, he is put off with the empty honor of a nomination for Governor, that he may be snowed under in the early fall. Indeed, it is very evident that this is not one of Thompson's seasons.

THE ELECTION BILL.

Republican Senatorial Caucus Held.

A Majority of the Senators for the Bill.

But No Decision Reached as to Final Action.

WASHINGTON, July 10. There will be a caucus of Republican Senators today, to arrange a programme for the disposition of the business during the remainder of the session. The real point at issue is whether the National Election bill shall be considered at this session. It is tacitly understood it appears is given to the minority that that measure will not be pushed than an resolved opposition will be interposed to the speedy passage of the Tariff bill, River and Harbor bill and the remaining appropriation bills, and an adjournment at an early day. The caucus is to undertake to decide whether an arrangement of the kind shall be made or the other and in the latter event to devise means for its disposition. There has been much consultation among Senators upon this subject, and the struggle of the opposition to be one, which is expected to take the form of talking against time, has been taken into consideration. It is realized that the successful issue of such programme of opposition would probably involve the failure of the Senate to act upon the Tariff and River and Harbor bills, as well as the National Election bill

Bill Taken Up

The Amendment to the Rules

proposed by Senator Chandler and set or amendments forward to enforce the consideration of the bill speedy action upon pending business all seems to be for a fair share of attention. Apparently the final objection made to all such propositions is that an attempt to change the rules of the Senate could be resumed as effectively as a motion to consider the election bill, and as much time might be consumed in adopting the new rule as would be necessary to pass the bill initially which may be laid before the caucus is to proceed under the existing rules and to put such business as the majority may see fit to undertake. According to this plan when the measure has, in the judgment of the majority been debated a reasonable extent, the Senator in charge of the measure is to move the adoption of the report, involving the passage of the bill, without further recognition of the presiding officer of to put the question It is urged that this does not involve a novel or revolutionary proceeding inasmuch as the original supervision of to which the Election bill as an amendment was finally passed in the Senate by just such construction of parliamentary law by the presiding officer and in the face of opposition, organized and operating on lines devolving in the present case

Later Reports.

The Republican Senators were in session three hours to-night discussing the order of business. The purpose was a decision to consolidate the consideration of the pending Appropriation bills, then take up the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill. There was a prolonged debate respecting the places to be assigned the River and Harbor bills, as well as the expediency of considering the National Election bill this session. No one was reached but it is believed that before the Shipping and Sunday civil bill will be disposed of.The Democratic policy will be to guide the Republicans in formulating measures as a permanent course to meet the necessities of the occasion.

The question showed a decided majority for the Federal Elections bill, but a fair good number showed a great deal of lukewarmness on the subject There was almost an unanimity in the opinion that it would be absolutely necessary to adopt the closure rule in order to pass the bill. Messrs. Edmunds, Teller and a few other old Senators thought it would overweigh the benefit to come from the bills passage

RACE RIOT.

Four Negroes Killed and Eight Wounded in the Affray.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., July 10 A special to the American from Griffin, Ga., says: A fatal race riot occurred at Moore's mill pond, in Fayette county, at 3 this afternoon. Four negroes were killed, six wounded, and two are reported dying. Eight whites were shot, it is thought only one fatally. A deputy sheriff was badly cowhided in a quarrel with a white man about the pursuit of some negro, which led up to a general shooting.

The Senate Adopts the Silver Conference Report.

Democrats Try to Kill Time by Filibustering in the House.

The Land Grant Forfeiture Bill Considered.

SENATE.

WASHINGTON, July 10. Mr. Dawes presented a memorial from Lynn, Mass., protesting against the appropriation for sectarian Indian schools. Referred.

The Senate resumed consideration of the conference report on the Silver bill and was addressed by Mr. Morgan in opposition to the report

The position taken by Mr. Morgan was controverted by Mr. Farwell and Mr. Jones, of Nevada, and Messrs. Voorhees and Gorman addressed the Senate in favor of the bill upon the currency of the country.

After lengthy debate a vote was taken on the conference report.

It was agreed to—yeas, 39; nays, 26; Mr. Frye voting yea and Mr. Hale being paired with Mr. Gray.

At 6 P. M. the Senate adjourned.

House.

The Democrats took up the time of the House this afternoon in filibustering against to prevent action on the report of the Committee on Rules, which, as it proposed to take up the Original Package and Bankruptcy bills

Mr. Rogers, of Arkansas, made a long speech on this request of Mr. Enloe, of Tennessee, that the Journal be corrected, to show that he was absent instead of present and not voting yesterday. Mr. Rogers criticised severely the new rules of the House.

Mr. Pidcock of Illinois and Mr. Williams of Illinois, also controlled the journal.

Speaker pro tem Burrows of Michigan, recognized Mr. Cannon of Iowa, who moved the approval of the journal, and on that demanded the previous question.

Despite Mr. Pidcock's protests the question was put and the yeas and nays ordered.

The previous question was sustained, yeas 154, nays 88, the Speaker counting a quorum.

After an unnecessary debate the journal was approved, yeas 158, nays 88.

The conference report on the disagreeing and conference appointments was then adopted, yeas 154, nays 88.

Mr. Faulkner of Maine, submitted and the House passed the conference report on the Agricultural Appropriations bill.

The House went into Committee of the Whole, with Mr. Peters of Kansas, in the chair, on the Land Grant Forfeiture bill.

Mr. Hooker of Mississippi, after speaking of the immense benefit accruing to the country from the building of a great transcontinental line of railroad, argued against the forfeiture of the land granted to aid in the consummation of the Gulf and Ship Island railroads.

Mr. McAdoo of New Jersey, spoke of the efforts of the Democratic House to forfeit unearned land grants and of the steady opposition of the Senate to those efforts.

How both Houses hung in the control of the Republicans a compromise had been passed by. The pending measure might be repealed in toto "To compromise again," with its length which keep Senate asleep." It was a debasing, a smirch, and a false pretense. The land was gone, and the bill was to mend up the public decks, when it was known that the horse was gone.

Pending further discussion the committee rose and the House at 5.30 adjourned.

Henry Page's bay gelding Alexander Boy, of Providence, captured the pacing race. Time, 2.20¼.

In the 2.24 class James Golden's Little Boy, George W. Lovell's Early Bird and H. B. Peabody's g g Frank Hamburg, formerly Joe B., each took a heat. It was postponed on account of darkness.

Burned and Drowned.

While fishing in the Housatonic river, near New Haven, Conn., July 10. Two persons were drowned this morning, one of whom is supposed to be Thomas Hall, a Cleveland Leather Manufacturer. The boat capsized on Tuesday. It has been put in thorough repair. This delightful and comparatively easy method of getting to the summit of Green Mountain grows in popularity every year.——Plans have been drawn for a new village library building to be erected on Ledgelawn avenue, at Bar Harbor. It will be a very tasteful, pretty structure. Work will be begun at once. The large number of books recently added to the library completes everything now in the line of histories, biographies and whole some novels.

The following changes in the postal service, have been announced; Route 474, Shelburn to West Sullivan, two miles, and back, six times a week, allowing not to exceed thirty minutes running time each way. From July 1st, 1890, to June 30th, 1892. Route 84. Bar Harbor to Mount Desert Ferry. From July 1st, 1890, embrace Sullivan (between terminal offices), and supply as often as boats stop at landing, but not less than six times a week, without change of distance. Route 377. Hancock to Cherryfield. From July 1st, 1890, curtail service to begin at Sullivan, omitting Hancock and West Sullivan, decreasing distance three and one-half miles six times a week service.

WILL REMAIN POPULAR JUST THE SAME. There have been reports that Bar Harbor is to have a new rival. A syndicate of New York capitalists has just purchased several thousand acres on the borders of Machias Bay, on the Maine coast, and about forty miles to the eastward of Bar Harbor. The country is wild, the climate superb, and the hunting and fishing are said to be excellent. Notwithstanding these considerably recurring stories of new rivals to Bar Harbor, the latter seems positively old and popular resort holds her own against all comers. Collamette was hailed five years ago as a new Bar Harbor that would effectually extinguish the glories of the old, and yet Campobello, although a delightful place, is now seldom heard of, and Bar Harbor is still the centre. The reputation of a summer place once made is difficult to destroy.

SUPERINTENDENT RESIGNS. Last week Prof. F. A. Sprat, who for the past five years has been principal of Hampden Academy, removed to Dexter to take a similar position there. In this change the Hampden Academy sustains a great loss and the school at Dexter is to be congratulated upon securing an able and experienced instructor. When Prof. Sprat took to Hampden the school had been steadily run down, but by his energy and unceasing labor and skill as a teacher it has been made one of the most prosperous schools in this section of the State. In this work he has been ably assisted by Mrs. Sprat, teacher in the normal department, and by other teachers. Mr. and Mrs. Sprat have been highlights in their labors for the school and it will be hard to fill their places. In going they bear with them the good wishes of a host of friends and the high esteem and affection of their pupils. They will be greatly missed in Hampden.

FROM ALBION TO BREMEN. Last evening a few admirers bribed church organist at one of the vans formed from H. H. & E. Hollis' mill in Brewer. The base accompaniments were promptly on hand, but the Dodge Company were the only ones needed, as they got a stream of water on the fire still extinguished it before the others arrived. The fire was in a pile of sawdust under which was a cutting off saw in the rear building of the mill, and the way in which it caught is not known. One of the workmen says that he passed the place about a half an hour before and enough to have touched it and there was no fire there then, but a little later the sailors on a vessel at the dock discovered the fire and notified the watchman who at once sounded the alarm. Not much damage was done. It was fortunate that the fire was seen when it was or a disastrous conflagration might have occurred.

AN ERRONEOUS IMPRESSION. The Ellsworth American in borrowth informed that the item in THE WEEK to the effect that quite a large number of people and the "Hoosiers of Ellsworth" would go to Fort and on the Fourth was not, as it inferred, intended as a slur upon the people of that good city. THE WEEK to-day understood that to be the name of the Ellsworth fire company, as the item was given him, and printed in that belief, stating that they would participate in the "firemen's parade." As the American has seen fit to assign THE WEEK for "an ungracious thing" when we were entirely innocent of any such intention it will of course do us the justice to correct the erroneous impression. THE WEEK is not conducted on that basis. Mistakes will sometimes happen as in this case, but "ungracious and completely uncalled for things" are not permitted to appear in these columns.

TENNIS TOURNAMENTS. There is some talk in this city among the tennis players of a tournament for both ladies and gentlemen later in the summer and it is probable that one will be held. Those that have occurred in former years have been very successful and have demonstrated that Bangor has many excellent players. There is a great deal of playing this summer as the different courts about the city and the scheme grows in interest every year A tournament is to be held at Auburn in a short time. Among the prospective contests in Bangor and expected will be Messrs. Howard and Day of Lewiston, J. L. Reade and Chenoert, of Lewiston, Savage and Williams of Auburn, who have played together at Bowdoin Rank and Williams of the Auburn Lawn Club and Harlow and Pingree also of the Auburn Lawn Club. Many others have many very fine players, among whom are H. C. Day, Arthur Hall, Mr. Woodrow, Mr. Gwynn. The contest in singles will also be lively and it is not improbable that the tournament may require the afternoons from Tuesday to Saturday.

FISHING RODS TALK. Our sportsmen will be interested in what the manufacturers of fishing rods say. They are concerned over the fact that the stock of Calcutta bamboo poles from which the rods are made has given out, and it is impossible to secure another stock of these poles until too late for this season's trade. These bamboo poles are imported in bundles of fifty, and usually bring about $15 per bundle. To-day one of these bundles could not be bought for love nor money. The particular bamboo is straight taper and used in preference to others, owing to the strength of its center. It fits so as rod is twice as long as that of a rod made of Japanese bamboo, for instance. The Japanese bamboo is almost as tough as the Calcutta variety, but the joints are so close together that it is difficult to cut it up to any advantage. The canes of the Japanese is pointed, but the tip is finally weak and cannot be used for a rod. Rods for fly fishing, which are made of split bamboo, are also affected by the scarcity of the Calcutta bamboo, as the latter is used for the center piece around which the split bamboo is glued. It has been put in thorough repair. This delightful and comparatively easy method of getting to the summit of Green Mountain grows in popularity every year.——Plans have been drawn for a new village library building to be erected on Ledgelawn avenue, at Bar Harbor. It will be a very tasteful, pretty structure. Work will be begun at once. The large number of books recently added to the library completes everything now in the line of histories, biographies and whole some novels.

For Summer Outings.

THE DAILY WEEK will be sent to persons going out of town for any period of time, and address changed as often as desired, at 35 cents per week, postage paid.

Rev. Albion Roth preaches in Emerson's grove, West Levant, on Sunday next.

Arrangements are being made for a German to occur next Thursday evening and a very pleasant event is being prepared for.

The West Branch drive was cut away from Forth Twin Dam Tuesday. It will take three days to sluice. There is a good head of water.

In the window of the store of Mr. George E. Hamstead is a portrait of the late Rev. E. H. Peck. The likeness is a most excellent one and the skill of the best. It is from the establishment of J. F. Gerrity & Co. and is a credit to that firm.

Our Wiun correspondent writes: A slight frost withered the leaves of beans and some other vegetation in this vicinity last night and probably did considerable damage in more frosty places.——Martin & Bridges are building a barn

The steamer Castine will take an excursion party to Islesboro to-day, leaving the Bangor and Bar Harbor Steamship Co.'s wharf at 8 A. M., and returning in the early evening. It is expected that a large number will participate in this trip to the region of Seabolt and Islesboro.

The Judy Club will take its annual outing-day at the Wildland, leaving the Exchange street station this afternoon at five o'clock. Special arrangements have been made for transportation and an elegant dinner will be served by Caterer Downs and a corps of experienced waiters.

The change in the weather during the past two days has been very marked, the past evening air being a most agreeable contrast to the warm oppressive atmosphere of recent weather. It is weather that is appreciated by those who cannot go to the seaside to receive refreshment from the cool salt air

The Ellsworths now stand at the head of the New England with League, having won three straight games from the St. Johns. The standing is as follows: Ellsworths—won 3, lost 1; per cent. won, 75. St Johns—won 2, lost 2; per cent. won, 50. Moncetons—won 2, lost 2; per cent. won, 50. Fredericktons—won 2, lost 3; per cent. won, 30.

A very attractive entertainment will be given in connection with the strawberry festival under the auspices of Daniel Chaplin Camp boys of Veterans next Thursday evening in City Hall. Refreshments of strawberries, ice cream and cake will be served and there will be dancing during the latter part of the evening. A very pleasant time is being arranged.

The astronomical observatory at Bowdoin college is now a certainty in the near future. About a year ago Mr Taylor, a former resident of Brunswick, gave $1,000 as a nest-egg for an observatory. The fund has been increasing by gifts of the alumni and at last, through the efforts of Prof. Lee, the requisite amount has been raised. The new observatory will be for perpetual use endowed for ever.

A Raymond excursion party numbering about sixty passed through the city Wednesday on the way to Bar Harbor for a two days stop. The party is in charge of Mr. Charles E. Harding, Pacific coast agent of Raymond & Whitcomb. The excursionists will arrive in this city Saturday morning and go to Ellsworth to remain over Sunday. They are having a very pleasant trip and are travelling in Pullman cars.

A lady who left the city yesterday on the 3.30 Bangor & Piscataquis train upon reaching Milton discovered that she had left her satchel, containing her pocket-book with a sum of money in it, at the Exchange street station waiting-room. She at once telegraphed Mr. S. F. Johnson in the city informing him of the loss. He went to the station and found the satchel with its contents all right. The affair turned out very fortunately for the lady.

THE WEEK has received paper announcing the death at his home in Binghampton, N. Y., on Sunday of Mr. Joseph H. Mason, at the age of 61 years and 7 months. Mr. Mason formerly resided in Glenburn, Me., but had for many years lived in Somerville, N. J., Peekskill and Binghampton, N. Y., where he carried on a watchmaking business. He was a devotee Christian worker whenever his health would permit. A widow and four children survive him. Mr Mason was an uncle of Mrs. E. C. Danforth, of this city.

Only routine business was transacted at Wednesday morning's session of the New England General Ticket and Passenger Agent's Association, the New York and Boston lines passenger committee and the eastern joint passenger committee, in session at St. Andrews. The party passed through the city yesterday on the afternoon on the homeward way. The train had five Pullman cars attached to it, the majority being occupied by the excursion Party. The members report a delightful time at St Andrews.

The handsome drinking fountain which has been presented to the town of Buckspore by Mr. Isaac B. Rich, banker of the Hollis Street Theatre, Boston, who is passing the summer at Buckspore, his native place, with his family, is now being placed in position in a central part of the town. The fountain is of polished granite, handsomely carved, and contains a trough on one side for the use of animals, and a water jet on the other for persons. It is not only ornamental but useful, and the gift is appreciated by the people of the town.

The stockholders of the Shore Line Railway Company met in annual session Wednesday morning at St. John, and directors were elected as follows: Messrs. Russell Sage, R. J. Cross, Giles H. Tainter, Sidney Shepherd, H. M. Ruggles, New York; Frank Todd, St Stephen, and E. H. Mallams, of St. John. At a subsequent meeting of the directors Mr. Cross was elected president and Mr. E. H. McLean vice president and managing director. The affairs of the road were reported in a satisfactory condition. Extensive repairs to the road bed are in progress, and will be finished this fall

CHAPTER XII.

THE PASSION OF DONA BEATRIX DE RIVERA.

"And you admit you're a beggar."

"Every word and deed I have spoken of or to you is gospel truth. Why should I not admit it? Is it a crime to be poor? Is it a crime to be a beggar? Is it a crime to [illegible] I am a beggar, and I am proud of it. Why? Because I have learned that the greatest thing in the world is to be a beggar. Ah, you smile! You think I am mad. Perhaps I am. Perhaps I am not. Time will tell. But I am not going to waste any more of your time. I am going very ill, and it seems to me that I have a very long time to live. But I wanted to see you, to exchange for this future, to make some new little plan of action."

"But you speak of failure and of those millions you have gained in thousands of breath," she said, repeating the figure he gave her and catching at this as something tangible. "The amount is gone, that makes my poor brain dizzy. It is already a magnificent success."

"It is a mere drop in the bucket," he rejoined, bitterly, attaching small way of looking at it. "Surely the sum of [illegible] and the reasoning presented in my letter can have made but little impression upon you."

Thus the letter came to be spoken of, and its [illegible] was discovered. Suppressed [illegible] small hand to her forehead in a gesture of consternation.
